DOLE AIRFLIGHT TO HONOLULU TODAY POSTPONED
ATTORNEY WINDREM ISSUES CHALLENGE

Protest Filed Against Forty Year Extension Of Parr Terminal Lease

CLAIM IS MADE THAT PROVISIONS OF HARBOR AGREEMENT WILL BE TO DETRIMENT OF CITY

Late yesterday afternoon Attorney Lee D. Windrem filed with City Clerk A. C. Faris, a voluminous protest against the 40 year extension of the Parr lease, to be read at the meeting of the council next Monday night.

Later Windrem handed copies of the protest to the newspapers, and when asked if his objections ran to the bond issue, he replied "No, I am in favor of the bond issue and feel that the harbor should be placed in condition for use by industries."

In his communication Windrem has many lines underscored which appear in black face type, and other lines and words he has in capital letters.

Windrem in his protest takes up the proposed extension ordinance and dissects it section by section.

In the communication Windrem challenges Parr to debate the terms of the lease before a mass meeting of the people of this city.

The protest as filed with the City Clerk reads as follows: PROTEST IN DETAIL

To the Honorable the City Council of the City of Richmond:

As a resident taxpayer I hereby solemnly protest against the adoption of the Ordinance proposing to extend the Parr lease to and for a term of fifty years.

May I be permitted to point out to you, as briefly as the vital importance of the subject warrants, some of the more serious objections to this Ordinance and the lease.

Be it remembered that our Harbor was granted to us by the State of California in 1913 under certain conditions and restrictions, as follows: to-wit:

1. "The harbor of Richmond shall remain always a public harbor and the said City shall never charge or permit to be charged on any of the premises by this act conveyed any unreasonable rate or toll, nor make nor suffer to be made any unreasonable charge, burden or discrimination."

2. The City of Richmond may lease for a term not exceeding twenty-five years any wharves, docks or piers constructed by it, and all such leases so executed shall reserve to the Council of the City of Richmond the right and privilege, by Ordinance to amend, change or modify such leases as in its judgment may seem proper. The aggregate amount of all wharves, docks and piers so leased by said City shall never exceed fifty per cent of all the wharves, docks and piers actually constructed." (At the same session of the State Legislature the leasing period was reduced to ten years.)

The lease to the Parr Terminal Company does not contain a single one of these restrictions. The only mention made as to any of these restrictions is a brief line at the tail end of section 30 of said lease which reads as follows: "The Council further reserves the right with the consent in writing of the lessee to amend this lease."

Now let us examine this lease and see just what obligations are imposed upon the taxpayers of the City thereunder:

1. The City has leased the entire improved Harbor to the Lessee without any restrictions whatever, and without any obligation on the part of the Lessee to expend a single dollar. In other words, this City has delivered into the hands of the Lessee over $2,000,000 worth of property, with a promise to expend many times that much more, and without reserving any rights in this property, for a period of ten years, and you now propose to make it for a period when most of us now living will have long been in our graves, and without any restrictions or conditions whatever. This is a strong statement, but I hereby challenge any body to successfully refute it.

Let us now quote from the lease and see if I am not right:

2. The City agrees to fill the leased premises with due dispatch, to the satisfaction of the Lessee, its sub-agents or sub-tenants. And in the same paragraph (No. 2) the Lessee kindly consents that the City may receive financial aid from the Federal Government, if it can get it. The City shall also, at its sole cost and expense, construct additional wharves, piers, warehouses, tracks, and other improvements and facilities as may be required for the accommodation of the commerce of said harbors, etc. (See paragraph 2 of said lease.)

3. The City must keep all the above described property as demised to the Lessee by said lease insured and pay the entire premium thereon, altho a portion of said insurance may be for the benefit of the Lessee, and in case of loss by fire the City must proceed within 60 days to rebuild or repair the damage and continue the same with due diligence, and if not so done, the Lessee may immediately proceed to do the reconstruction work and the City shall immediately pay into the hands of the Lessee the entire insurance money. And if the insurance money is not sufficient for the purpose then the City must make up the difference. (We are

French Ace

THAT'S MAURICE DROUHI, French pilot of the Miss Columbia, owned by Charles Levine. Levine is to be passenger on the scheduled flight across the Atlantic sponsored by the owner. Squabbles have arisen between them, but they're mostly temperamental, according to Levine. Hop was scheduled for this morning at 5, but prediction was made that the flight would be postponed.

Postponement Of 3 Cornered Atlantic Race Today Foreseen

Levine, Givon, Costes Thought Ready For Ocean Journey

(City Universal Service) PARIS, Aug. 11.—The three-cornered transatlantic air race promised for 5 o'clock seemed doomed at 4 a.m.

Beyond the secret arrival of men and women in evening dress from On Montmartre, there was no activity at Le Bourget, and hangars of the Miss Columbia and the Farman Bluebird were dark.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—A three-cornered transatlantic race from Paris to New York at 5 o'clock Friday morning loomed at midnight to-night.

Lieutenant Givon, the pilot of the Farman bluebird, was in the hangar at Le Bourget directing the work of a full crew testing the motors.

Mathis, the mechanic of the Miss Columbia, arrived at Le Bourget shortly before midnight to await Drouhin. Levine is in conference at the Hotel Ambassador in Paris, studying the weather reports.

Costes, the pilot of the Breguet military plane Nungesser and Coll, expects to arrive at Le Bourget flying from his villa at Coulbay at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning, fuel in three hours and take off.

The weather conditions for the takeoff here seem ideal. There is a full moon, the stars are shining and there are occasional drifting clouds.

At midnight, the legend "Paris to New York" was painted on the fuselage of the Farman Bluebird.

GREENBACKS GO BACK TO THE OWNER

MARTINEZ, Aug. 11.—And so he took the $500 and returned it to his owner!

That's what Joseph Pivo, 50, serving a six months term in the county jail did when he found a purse containing that sum on the grounds adjoining the bathhouse where he was at work.

Pivo was convicted for complicity in the theft of gold from the Selby smelter, but by demonstration of many "honest" qualifications was made a trusty. It is reported that he may have the remaining three months of his sentence shortened.

The money belonged to G. W. Carrick, 50 San Pablo avenue, El Cerrito.

Tuesday to map the year's program. Leaders of Community are Rev. M. H. Greenlee, Rev. C. M. Shook, John Duarte, Charles McCausland, Dean Hall, William Hillier, George Johnston, Frank Penly, David Dillabaugh, Bert Busow, Robert Burns, Everett Tittemore, John Cusack, Reid Bullock, Alpha Spear, Harry Spires, Dr. Lowell Sears and E. George Harlow. Some 500 local boys are affiliated with these Y.M.C.A. clubs.

PROGRAM GIVES NEW SPIRIT TO BOND CAMPAIGN

Enthusiastic Support For Improvement Of Harbor Given

Endorsing the harbor bonds, whereby Richmond will be able to develop its harbor, making it one of the greatest on the Pacific coast, organized labor of the city last night held a mass meeting in Brotherhood hall and pledged itself to interest other citizens that the vote in the election on August 23 will be unanimous.

MAYOR CHANDLER SPEAKS

A. E. Irvine, president of Contra Costa Labor Council, presided over the meeting. The first speaker of the evening was Mayor Mattie Chandler. In prefacing her remarks, she told of the number of unemployed who seek her aid and declared that they were not asking for alms but for a chance to make an honest living.

"If these bonds are voted," she said, "not only will we be able to take care of the unemployed in our city but we will be able to bring prosperity to the city as a whole and insure its growth for the years to come."

"Let us make the vote unanimous. If we do not vote the bonds, (Continued to page 4)

Britten Shows Improvement

After 102 hours of fighting against double pneumonia, reports received from the Cottage hospital state that Henry Britten showed a slight improvement. Britten has been ill since last Sunday night.

When his condition took a turn for the worse, the Richmond Fire department was called upon to furnish the department inhalator. Since 3 o'clock Monday morning, firemen under the direction of Assistant Chief J. J. Barry have been in attendance administering oxygen and employing the inhalator at intervals.

It was reported late last night that Britten was resting easily and the inhalator treatments were reduced to once an hour, but they have continued the feeling of oxygen. The firemen have been donating their off-shift hours to the work so that the strength of the department for the needs of the city would not be reduced.

Death Summons Mrs. A. Fisher

Mrs. Margaret Fisher, wife of Alvin Fisher, 430 Nevin avenue, passed away at a local hospital last night at the age of 60 years.

Union Oil And Parafine Are Rumored In 2 Giant Mergers

Three Firms Involved In Gigantic Oil Combination

Two important industrial mergers in each of which prominent Contra Costa manufacturers are involved are pending according to announcements made yesterday.

The Zellerbach Paper Co. is about to acquire control by merger, of the Parafine Companies, Inc., operators of the Antioch paper mills, and the Union Oil Company is mentioned in the pending merger with Richfield, California Petroleum and Pan American Western Petroleum.

Merger involving properties of an estimated book value of $15,000,000 was announced by J. F. Zellerbach, president of the National Paper Products Company, subsidiary of the Zellerbach Paper Company, and R. S. Shaw, executive vice president of the Parafine Companies.

The merger will include a score or more of plants operated by the two organizations throughout Coast territory, engaged in the manufacture of chemical and mechanical pulp, all grades of box board, the fabrication of corrugated and solid fiber shipping cases, folding and setup boxes, cartons, oyster, ice cream pails, paper tubes and cans.

OIL MERGER RUMORED

Four parleys having for their objective, the combination of Petroleum Corporation, Richfield Oil Company and Pan American Western Petroleum Company into a $2,000,000 merger that would place it second only to Standard Oil upon this coast, are now being held.

George Armesby, of Blair and Company, investment bankers, is now in California, and he has already held conversation with executives of the oil companies mentioned, with a view to the joining of their activities.

Efforts to bring about a merger of this kind are declared by Coast oil men and financiers to be most logical. The absorption of California by Standard Oil of California is most logical. The absorption or the acquisition of General Petroleum by Standard of New York, the taking into camp of Associated Oil by Tidewater—all of these combinations have left Union and the larger of the independent companies faced by the necessity to solidify themselves.

Richmond Girls To Give C. E. Meet Report

A report of the activities of the Christian Endeavor Conference at Mount Herman will be given by the four Richmond girls who attended the conference, next Sunday night at the First Presbyterian church at the evening service.

Rev. E. W. Haney who conducted a Bible study class at the conference, has also returned. The four girls who attended were Misses Roberta Laird, Ida Engelking, Lois Moran, and Cecil Delaney. John Cusack and Reed Bullock accompanied Rev. Haney to the conference and were there two days.

Richmond Moose Plan For Picnic

Richmond lodge of Moose is making preparations to attend the picnic at Ramona park next Sunday. This affair is sponsored by the Oakland lodge of Moose, is free, and in the nature of a get-together affair.

It was announced that the next Moose Frolic would take place at Walnut Creek September 24 and 25. This decision was made by the Alameda Legion which met in Oakland last Tuesday evening. Dr. C. M. Ripon of Walnut Creek advocated Walnut Creek as the place for the meeting. The Walnut Creek Chamber of Commerce and merchants have donated several cups to be given as prizes in the competitive drills to be put on by the teams of the Moose and the Mooseheart Legion.

This evening the Moose drill team under Captain Joseph Gardella and the drum corps under P. F. Barry will go to Oakland to participate in the festivities of that lodge. The Oakland Moose are holding a special ladies' night, vacationing there.

'Schoolma'm'

MISS DORAN, the "Flying schoolma'm," is just so enthusiastic about this Dole flight, she's to fly in the "Miss Doran" and you know how a woman is! There're clothes to buy... one mustn't let Hawaiians think American girls don't know how to dress!

AH, WATSON, 'TIS BLOOD METHINKS

PITTSBURG, Aug. 11.—She was found lying in a pool of blood, a ghastly scene, etc. But the "blood" was only tomato catsup, and a possible fracture of the skull and bruises were the only casualties suffered by Mrs. Pete Arroya of this city, when she was allegedly plucked over the head with a bottle of "tommy blood" wielded by the dextrous hands of Mrs. F. Rodriguez.

Mrs. Arroya went to call on Mrs. Rodriguez yesterday—for no known reason—and was deflected to lie in the tomato catsup—also for no known reason. Pittsburg police are investigating.

NEXT TUESDAY SET AS START FOR HAWAII HOP

Only Two Airplanes Set For Trip; Agreement Made By Pilots

OAKLAND AIR PORT, Aug. 11. After a day of uncertainty during which the Dole air flight to Hawaii was on and off half a dozen times, the air pilots got together in the administration building on the field and agreed to postpone the start from tomorrow noon to Tuesday noon, August 16.

TWO PLANES QUALIFY The only two planes passed by officials and qualified to enter the race tomorrow were the San Francisco Examiner's Golden Eagle, to be piloted by John "Jack" Frost, and the silver monoplane of Lieutenant Norman Goddard.

Auzey Pedlar got the pilots together and it was under his management that the meeting was held and the agreement finally signed. Government officials here to test the planes and members of the local committee immediately agreed to the postponement when the proposition was put up to them.

SAME NUMBERS

Under the signed agreement all who qualify before 10 a.m. tomorrow will retain their original numbers. Jack Frost, pilot of the Golden Eagle, who drew No. 15 in the original drawing for starting place, will now move up to first place and Norman Goddard will be No. 2. Those who qualify early tomorrow will take numbers in the order in which they qualify.

Major Livingston Irving's ship has not been completely cleared by the government officials and neither has that of Lieutenant Benjamin Griffin and Al Henley.

Auzey Pedlar announced that he had made a change in navigators since Manley Lawing had been disqualified. He had selected Lt. V. R. Knope of the San Diego naval air station as Lawing's successor.

The postponement was made as the result of the sportsmanship of the two pilots who had qualified. Both maintain that they wanted all entrants to have an equal chance since all had gone to great expense together with hard work and loss of time.

LINDY ON THE JOB

LINDY the bird keeps on the job even though the spotlight of publicity isn't focused brilliantly on him.

Flying from city to city he is spreading the word to build airports!

Airports soon will be as essential to the prosperity of a community as roads and railroads are at present.

The public needs a lot of convincing on that subject as yet.

It wants proof that the airplane is actually a success; that it is safer than other means of transport; that it is efficient and that it can be made available to every man jack of the population.

These are the things that Lindy is proving to the nation as he hops from one city to another on his self-chosen mission of aviation development.

This is as important as his transatlantic flight, even though it does not bring spectacular applause.

In spite of which Lindy sticks to the job and as usual—does it perfectly.

Five passengers are said to have eaten their dinner in comfort in an airplane flying over Paris the other day. These air dinners are going to require new regulations. Where for instance will we throw the melon rinds and the gingerale bottles?

Two women were arrested for trying to smuggle bottles of real brandy into New York in their petticoats. Didn't know there was such things any more as real brandy and petticoats.

Two prominent Italians debated the Mussolini policies over the radio in New York the other night. Debating on this subject is doubtless much more pleasant and satisfactory in New York than it would be in Rome.

The naturalists say that few alligators live out their expectancy on account of the great demand for their hides. The same thing might be said of politicians.

Every day or so, it is reported Moscow fears an attack from a new direction. Moscow certainly has all the symptoms of a bad boy who knows he has something coming to him.

In A Lighter Vein

Two brawny, sunburnt sons of Ireland met each other on the street shortly before an eclipse of the sun.

"Hello, Pat, are yez goin' ter see the eclipse?"

"Pat, I'm goin' ter see the eclipse," replied Tom, who was a little taller than Pat.

"Go home an' smoke some glass of yer own," said Pat, who was a little shorter than Tom.

"Sure, if that's all yez have ter do, that's easy enough," replied Tom.

"Some time later Tom was passing down the street when he caught Pat sitting on his stoop staring at the sky and maddly pulling away at a short stump of a pipe from which no smoke issued. Pat, he called out.

"Nary a bit of wan have I seen it yet."

"Nary a bit of wan have I seen it yet," replied Pat, who was a little taller than Tom.

"Nary a bit of wan have I seen it yet," replied Tom, who was a little shorter than Pat.

"Nary a bit of wan have I seen it yet," replied Pat, who was a little taller than Tom.

It is said that the sanctity and memory of the elephant exceed those of any other animal. This is very possible, for in the many cases reported the elephant has been seen to weep over the death of a friend or to grieve over the loss of a mate.

One of the recent stories reported of an elephant's sadness over the death of a friend, but the comic side of it makes up for that deficiency. It seems that this particular native African was an article of a traveling circus, and part of his traveling circus consisted of a troupe of elephants in training on a stool in front of a piano and producing some hideous sounds called music. One day, having hit the instrument heavier than usual, he was severely punished. A new elephant took his place on the stool as usual, but when the stool was used he absolutely refused to do his act and growled and growled. He was led out and after a short time the manager entered with this excuse:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I regret that the disobedience of Jack has caused you the loss of pleasure, but unfortunately the poor fellow discovered that the story in the paper of the piano came from his mother's tongue, and he couldn't play for grief."

"Do you do much climbing, Harold?" asked the newly arrived guest.

"Well, in a way I do," said Harold. "I climb all over the mountains, and I climb all over the house."

Discontented Sammy—I wish I was down at the seashore instead of up here in the mountains. I wish I was down at the seashore.

Discontented Sammy—I'd be wishing I was back here.

"Mother," said Mr. Hilda to his little daughter, as he sat down in the farm house, "when you have been in all the world."

"Mr. Farmer," said Mother, "I love mamma very much and I love you very much, and here Mrs. Farmer is sort of both."

Dear Patricia Lee:

What is a poor working man to do with a wife who wants to dress like a fashion plate? I have been married not quite a year and my wife is ruining me with her extravagance. Before she married she spent every cent of her salary on clothes. Now she expects to do the same thing with the money I earn. Of course I find it impossible to get ahead. Then, too, she hates cooking, so we've begun to take all our meals in restaurants. This is more than I can afford. I'm heart sick. But what is a man to do under the circumstances?

LLOYD H.

Now, I'll ask you another, Lloyd. Why does a poor working man marry a girl who dresses like a fashion plate? And why does a man who loves to eat marry a girl who hates to cook? The only thing you can do is to make the best of it, unless you can persuade your wife to change her ways. Why don't you have a heart to heart talk with her. Take her into your confidence as to your financial condition and tell her your plans for the future. If she's a good sport—and she probably is—she'll play fair with you. But don't expect a lightning change in her. You can't turn a bird of paradise into a wren overnight.

What Your FACE TELLS

By Betty Morrison Psy.D.

IF YOUR HEAD IS SHORT Every normal individual possesses talents, tendencies, capabilities and limitations, and wise is he who knows his own. Our lives are so short that we cannot afford to make too many experiments if we would reach success before our time is up. Then, too, we are so much happier if we use our strongest talent.

Persons with a long head development (from ear forward) and short backhead (from ear backward) are far-sighted, cold and deliberate in their natures. They have strong perceptive power, are inclined to be generalizers and not specialists. These folks are more interested in the future than in temporary profits. They are business builders ever "on the job" and know just where they are going when they start.

Folk with short backheads and long frontheads have a broad outlook on life. They are careful thinkers, strong reasoners and do not give their opinions or decision until they have studied each situation from every angle. They see an opportunity, visualize what they can do with it and very seldom fail in putting their ideas into practice. You will always find their business moving in the right direction.

Folk with a long fronthead and short backhead take responsibility without the slightest physical exhaustion or "brain fog" for they are very conservative with their energy. They are forceful, strenuous individuals who demand punctuality and loyalty in all their dealings. They have no trouble in remembering numbers, dates, statistics or facts.

NOT HOME LOVERS Love of home is deficient in their brain development. They can be as silent and cold as a grave in their love affairs and a rule do not love until late in life, if they mate at all. Parents who possess this head shape show little or no affection for their children and will insist upon them being brought up under strict scientific rules.

Children with this brain inheritance will show early in life the desire to be alone. They care very little for the association of other children and are sometimes cruel to animals. When educated and trained, they make excellent physicians, surgeons, bank presidents, administrators and educators. Don't ever attempt to "slip anything over" this man.

Keep Your Chin Lean, Wife, To Keep Hold On Your Hubby

By LADY BEATRICE GREY

A woman's chin is the mirror of her face. A chin that is a pencil, will serve you well in the end.

Ladies, look to your chins and see that they are not double, triple or quadruple what nature intended them.

Guard the chin line well, and you put a sentinel at beauty's door. It is so easy to take care that the multiple chin does not arrive, but so hard to dismiss it once it has been bid welcome by your carelessness.

Flabby muscles can be the cause of a drooping chin as easily as obesity. Massage and daily tightening of the jaw muscles will tend to eradicate the potentialities of the multiple chin.

Careful inspection of your daily diet to see that it does not contain the overfattening foods and sweets for which every woman has a weakness.

What was the cutest thing your baby said? Send it to the "Baby Editor."

When a Man Loves

By ALLIE LOWE MILES

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc. John Barrymore in "WHEN A MAN LOVES" is a Warner Bros. Production.

"Where did you ever get such an agile wrist?" inquired Lescat with admiration.

"You forget that for years I was a circus swinger in the church," Fabien's amazing adaptability in handling the cards absolutely sold him on the possibilities of the game. For his tutelage, learning all the fine points and improving upon the many of them. He acquired a remarkable facility in slight of hand tricks. With the help of a pair of long cuff ruffles he learned to shuffle and store certain cards away for future use with such address that the keenest observer could detect nothing out of order.

Within a few days Lescat introduced Fabien to various clubs. It was vital that money in large quantities should be his, therefore Fabien's name and did not share the King's interest. He had not seen Fabien since that night at the Duc de Richelieu's. The King's interest in Fabien was a room full of people. Nevertheless, the Comte knew that Fabien had deserted him for the fiery young man and he was determined to revenge himself in some way that would cause them both great anguish.

"I shall look forward to playing with your sword—and I shall win," the Comte said to Fabien. "You need not wait long, your Majesty," whispered the Duc. "For there he is just coming down stairs with his lady, Manon Lescat."

The King turned slowly, then stopped—spellbound as his mask ed eyes rested upon Manon. Never had she looked more gorgeously sweet and desirable. Fabien's wealth had enabled him to buy the most priceless things Paris offered, and the more fact that Manon wore them made their beauty more alluring. Love had also worked its miracle of perfection with her figure, and the expression on her face was a mixture of delicate innocent charm and irresistible seductiveness.

His Majesty noticed that her ornaments were as handsome as any of the crown jewels, also that she wore them like a Queen.

Through the slits of the small black mask Louis feasted his eyes on Manon's fascinating beauty. He was so intrigued that he immediately made her permit the figure of her court to intrude on his vision.

"A little Venus!" exclaimed the King, grasping Richelieu's arm. "Present her to me immediately!"

As the Duc de Richelieu went off on his mission the King was attracted by the mention of Manon's name. Inclining his head without turning around, he listened intently to a conversation going on at a nearby table.

"So you think you can copy the pretty ways of Manon—don't, it makes you ridiculous," said a man to Nana.

"You old blockhead," she snapped back. "Manon has the best technique in Paris! See how it works with Fabien! He simply loads her with diamonds. Nana was dressed in the best possible imitation she could manage, to make herself look like Manon; she also assumed an innocent air and amused everyone by adopting a demure, sweet tone of voice."

"I see that he loads her with jewels—and she looks beautiful in them—but Nana, if I had the Chevalier's genius for cards I could buy the crown jewels."

The King was amused at hearing this reference to the royal jewel box. However, his interest in the gossip wanted alone he impatiently awaited the arrival of Manon. He did not even answer when the Comte spoke—he was devising a plan that would make Manon his, just as surely as he was the King of France. It was a cruel ruse he had in mind.

The things men do when they love, or think they do, are not worth honorable mention. That time old saying, "All is fair in love and war," will ever be true as an excuse for many digressions, and King Louis XV did not prove an exception to the rule.

Fabien and Manon were the center of an eager group, who greeted them as soon as they came down the stairs. He was as greatly admired by the women as she was by the men.

On that particular night Fabien was attired in lustrous white satin. His coat buttons, buckles and fob were resplendent with diamonds. It was perhaps significant that the exquisite lace on his cuffs was a little fuller and longer than usual. Contact with the world plus his recent prosperity gave him an air of assurance that was most attractive. All of this, coupled with his natural gentlemanly manner and courteous attentiveness to Manon made him a paragon of all that was expected of a man—at least from the feminine viewpoint.

The Duc de Richelieu intruded on the little group and said, "I have been ordered to present you to a certain gentleman."

However, the disguise did not deceive the Duc de Richelieu, and when he saw the two distinguished

CHAPTER XVII

A passion for gambling surged through Paris. The illustrious men and women of the day frequently gathered in the salons of the Duc de Richelieu to try their skill and see what fickle fortune could do for them before the night was over.

The Duc's magnificent apartment was also a favorite meeting place for the nobility, and on one particular night His Majesty King Louis XV came in company with Comte de Ravor. He was in search of diversion and wore a mysterious little black eye mask to prevent recognition.

However, the disguise did not deceive the Duc de Richelieu, and when he saw the two distinguished

Protest Filed Against Forty Year Extension Of Parr Lease

The City is to get the money in this case. And in the event the property is destroyed by an agency not covered by insurance then the City must, nevertheless, immediately reconstruct the same at its sole cost and expense to its former state. (See Sec. 3 of lease.)

4. The Lessee reserves the exclusive right to fix tolls, dockage and charges and to prescribe the other rules and regulations as it may deem proper. The Lessee to be the sole judge of what is a reasonable charge, and what other rules and regulations are "proper." (See Section 4 of lease.)

5. "The Lessee shall have the privilege of constructing, maintaining and operating all buildings, structures, trackage and other improvements, on the demised premises. All such structures shall immediately vest in the City, subject to the right of the Lessee to use the same during the term of this lease, or any extension thereof, without any compensation to the City therefor. The Lessee shall be reimbursed by the City, however, the cost of constructing any such buildings, structures, trackage, or other improvements consistent with, and which will promote commerce and navigation at the harbor of the City, upon that portion of the 102 acre tract of land acquired, or about to be acquired by the Lessee, etc. And the City agrees to reimburse the Lessee the entire cost of all such improvements constructed by the Lessee at its expense including interest at 5 per cent per annum until the whole amount is paid." (See Section 6 of said lease.)

You will observe by this language that the Lessee may, at any time it may deem it proper, build and construct to its heart's content and charge the City for it, and the interest thereon and the City is powerless to prevent it. You will also observe that all buildings, etc., so constructed are to be used by the Lessee during the entire term of the lease without any compensation to the City whatever. Think of it! The City pays for it but, if your Ordinance is adopted, the Lessee has the use of it for fifty years free of charge and the City never receives a dollar of income from it.

6. The Lessee reserves the right to sublet all or any part of the demised premises and to permit such sub-lessee to construct plants, works, buildings, trackage and structures for manufacturing, etc. (See Section 7 of said lease.) You will observe that the Lessee could, if it deemed it profitable, sublet the outer dock to a moving picture show, and the City would be powerless to prevent it.

7. The City agrees to pay all the taxes not only upon the property owned by the City, but also upon the 102 acre tract owned by the Lessee, including all the improvements thereon. The City also agrees to grade, pave and sidewalk Tenth street, 14th street, and 15th avenue, from their present terminals to the property of the Lessee, and to maintain the same and keep the same in repair during the life of this lease, or any extension thereof; and the City further agrees that should the street work be done under a street improvement Act and an assessment or bond be levied against the property of the Lessee then the City shall repay the same to the Lessee with all interest thereon. (See Section 11 of said lease.)

8. The City agrees, free of cost to the Lessee, to forthwith dredge a navigable channel 32 feet in depth and 200 feet in width from the navigable waters of San Francisco Bay to around, over and upon the land of the Lessee, including turning basins, and every thing else the Lessee could think of, free of cost to the Lessee. (See Section 12 of said lease.)

I started out to count the number of times that phrase, "free of cost to the Lessee" occurred in this lease but finally ran out of figures and had to give it up.

9. The above Section also provides that "no wharfage, dockage or tolls shall be payable to the City for any vessels landing at any wharf or other landing places on any part of the land owned by the Lessee, or which may hereafter be acquired by it, but the same shall be the private business of the Lessee."

Then, in sum, we build the channel to and "stone and iron" the property of the Lessee, fill its land, now owned or which may be hereafter acquired construct turning basins, where Lessee directs, pay its taxes, construct three streets to its property at an immense cost to the City, maintain the same forever, pay for all future construction work including wharves, docks, warehouses, trackage, switches, etc., when in the judgment of the Lessee such work shall be necessary, repay the cost of same to Lessee if it shall elect to do said work, with interest thereon at 5 per cent until paid, give it full and exclusive control of all of our improved water front without the payment to us of a dollar unless the same shall be earned thru its management, but, after doing all this, the Lessee is careful as you will note, to exclude the City from any possible profit on its property. This is about as pronounced a case of give and take as I have ever known. We give and the Lessee takes.

10. The City agrees to dredge and keep dredged a channel not less than 32 feet in depth and not less than 400 feet in width, leading from the navigable waters of San Francisco Bay to all the demised premises and to the property now owned or which may be hereafter acquired by the Lessee. Also turning basins. Also, too, under the direction of the Lessee and according to its order, dispose of all mud and silt from the dredging operations, and particularly to fill the land of the Lessee first. If there should be any stoppage of the channel as above described then the Lessee shall notify the City and the City shall, within twenty days thereafter commence opening the same and continue with the velocity of a bullet to its conclusion, all at the sole cost of said City. And, in the event the City should fail to begin digging out the mud as aforesaid within the 20 day period the Lessee may go at it, but the City shall bear all the cost and expenses of same. The City also agrees to fill any and all other lands that may be hereafter acquired by the Lessee and which may be reached by the dredger pipe, but in the event that a booster pump or pumps shall become necessary to reach the outlying lands of Lessee, then the Lessee will pay for that part of the program. (See Section 15 of said lease.)

11. It is interesting in that it is the only time in the many provisions of this lease where the Lessee obligates itself to spend a nickel.

12. The City agrees that it will, free of cost to the Lessee, and its assigns, fill or raise the reclaimed lands included within the demised premises, or the lands acquired or to be acquired by the Lessee, or its assigns, from the Bay Counties Land Company, OR FROM OTHER THIRD PERSONS, when thereunto requested by the Lessee. The City to be liable for all damages to adjacent lands that may be damaged by these dredging operations. (See Section 16 of said lease.)

These are some of the features of this lease to which I object, and which, if the lease should be extended for a period of fifty years, it would, in my judgment, be destructive to the future growth and prosperity of the City, and impose upon the great mass of our people an insupportable burden.

Now let us see what this lease requires of the Lessee:

1. The Lessee agrees to use its best endeavor to locate industrial plants in this City.

2. It agrees to furnish estimates of receipts and disbursements from its harbor each month, but does not pay anything to the City except annually. (See Section 16 of said lease.)

I call your attention to the estimate furnished for July, 1927, and in the interest of brevity will only quote the last three items of disbursements:

Office salaries and expenses, $207.00; general overhead, $600.00; miscellaneous $395.64.

Perhaps I am stupid, but I can make nothing of these items, however much I have tried.

Now what else does the Lessee promise us, or agree to do under the lease for all the benefits it derives from the splendid property we have delivered into its hands without costing it a dollar and for all the obligations we

ODD FELLOWS TO GO TO CROCKETT FOR RECEPTION

The Contra Costa encampment of Odd Fellows will hold a short business meeting at Odd Fellows hall at 7 o'clock this evening. The lodge team will then go to a body to Crockett to attend the reception of the Grand Master, C. H. S. Bidwell of Sacramento, who is making his visit to the district this year. Transportation will be provided for all members who wish to attend.

District Deputy Grand Master George T. Stanley of Richmond is in charge of the preparations for the reception. Both Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of Richmond have been invited to go. Crockett lodge will first have a short business session and then will march to the auditorium where the meeting will be held.

Club Mendelssohn Enjoys Clever Playlet

Club Mendelssohn enjoyed the presentation of "Tickets, Please," a play by Irving Berlin, at a meeting in Richmond clubhouse yesterday afternoon. Mrs. J. Moyle, Mrs. G. W. Topping and Mrs. W. Schmidt took parts in the clever playlet and were given hearty applause.

It was planned that a musical program should be given at the next meeting of the club, August 25. Mrs. J. A. McVittie, president, presided at a short business meeting yesterday, prior to the presentation of the play.

Play as much? Do not all speak in one voice.

Believing that you are about to take a step that will be destructive to this City, and impose impossible burdens upon our people, I solemnly warn you to send carefully this matter before taking final action.

Respectfully submitted
LEE D. WINDREM.

"BLUE EAGLE" GRIPPING FILM AT CALIFORNIA

Headed by George O'Brien and an all-star cast, "The Blue Eagle," Fox Film's gripping action picture story of land and sea, will open a two-day engagement at the California Theatre beginning today.

Janet Gaynor plays the leading feminine role.

Directed by John Ford, who wielded the megaphone during the filming of "The Iron Horse," this story moves rapidly to a smashing climax.

It hinges upon the love of a youth, George O'Brien (George O'Brien) and his girl, Janet Gaynor, who is being pursued by a band of pirates.

Both O'Brien and Gaynor have been in the picture before, but neither has been in a picture as big as this one.

There are many actual scenes of naval practice as the big guns are about to go into action. The action is so intense that it is hard to believe that it is a picture.

Other features on the same program include "Smith's Vacation," a Mack Bennett comedy, "Hodge Podge" and International News and Larry Canel, at the organ.

DELANEY WINS ON FOUL IN THE SEVENTH

BASQUE CLOUTER WARNED BY REFEREE FOR HITTING LOW. DELANEY HAS BEST ALL WAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Jack Delaney won on a foul from Paolino Uzcudun in the seventh round of their scheduled 15-round bout tonight.

Delaney had all the better of every round, pounding the Spaniard at will.

Paolino was continually warned for hitting low and after 1 minute and 57 seconds of the seventh round the referee awarded the fight to Delaney, disqualifying Paolino.

ROUND ONE

Paolino came out in a crouch behind his huge arms. As he swung a left hook to Delaney's head Jack started a stream of left jabs that reached a dozen, all clean blows to the head without a return. The Spaniard waded in close and slugged Jack with a right to the chin. Jack ripped a solid right uppercut into the Basque's head when he tried it again. Paolino was clumsy but the big gathering, mostly Spanish, cheered his every move to the echo.

ROUND TWO

Paolo was a mass of elbows, head buried deeply behind, as he waded into Delaney. A sharp right lashed in Jack's chin. Paolino hooked a stiff left to the body as Delaney whaled him effectively with three right uppercuts. Another right uppercut buried in the Spaniard's body. Delaney hammered Uzcudun with both hands as he bored in and even cuffed the Spaniard playfully on the ear, but Paolino did not seem to mind a bit. The bell found the Basque still advancing into a hail of gloves.

ROUND THREE

Paolino tried to weave but he couldn't get within range as Delaney patted him at will about the head and body. Jack was smiling at the Spaniard's efforts as he cuffed Paolino around. A stiff right uppercut drove through the Basque's guard to the body. A wild left landed high on Delaney's head but he danced away. Without ever a backward movement Paolino plodded after the sharp-shooter taking a steady jolting about the chin. The Basque was still on the hunt when the gong rang.

ROUND FOUR

Delaney's left jab darted like a long whip into Paolino's face but he became careless and a wild right to the side almost drove Jack through the ropes. He came back viciously, plastering Paolino with a two handed body ramming that didn't bother the Spaniard a bit. In close Paolino landed four stiff jolts to the body and coming out drove a hard left hook to Jack's neck. The procession was on again, Jack stabbing and beating through openings as Paolino missed but kept plodding forward. They were in a clinch at the bell.

ROUND FIVE

ROUND SIX

Dancing gracefully on his toes, Delaney speared the Basque three times with lefts to the head. Paolino dove forward and nearly fell through the ropes as Delaney hooked him full on the chin with a left. Still plunging forward with blood now coursing from his nose, Paolino hammered a short right to Jack's ribs and followed with a right hook to the chin. Peering through his own as well as a dozen of Delaney's gloves, Paolino followed Jack into a corner. He almost fell and Delaney speared him with a right to the head. Jack was hitting with both hands to the chin when the bell rang.

ROUND SEVEN

Delaney hardly breathed heavily in his corner while Paolino's handlers sponged his gory face frantically. The rights were thudding again into Paolino's head and his left eye now was cut.

Paolino lunged in close, missed and took Delaney's short right full on the chin. When he missed a low swing Paolino tried to shake hands with the referee. The

HOME RUNS PER LAST GAME OF 1927 SEASON

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Barrel House	11	3	.786
Refinery	8	7	.533
Mechanics	6	9	.400
All Standards	4	10	.285

The Barrel House and Refinery decided to close the Standard Oil league season by holding a track meet at the First street park last night. In the home run event, the Barrel House got three points to Refinery's two. The two Fitzgeralds and Snively were the entries for the Barrel House. Autry and McCoy represented the Refinery. Snively swatted his homer over the center field fence while the other four chose the right field fence.

The two-base hit event ended in a tie, Bradbury and Autry, wearing the Refinery colors and Muth and Snively doing their stuff for the Barrel gang. Muth was winner of the three-base-hit event.

Incidentally the track meet was a part of a ball game played between the two teams and ending when the league champs got 13 runs to the Refinery's 5.

Jobst held the mound down for the Refinery. The Barrel House started out with Snively. Gene Fitzgerald took the mound in the fourth and Butler finished the game, relieving Fitz in the sixth.

DAD AND I

The wise Fox.
Let's watch this fox making his bed. Before lying down he turns round and round sinking lower and lower, smoothing out whatever may be in his way as he nears the ground. As he turns, he strokes his hair close to his body, thus keeping out the cold and the wet.

'JOE' DUNDEE BOUT STOPPED

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 11.—Joe Dundee, welterweight champion of the world and Pinky Mitchell, fought five and a half rounds here today and at the end of that time, they evidently had not done their work well, so referee Jaeger stopped the fight and called it "no contest."

The crowd which attended the Milwaukee Athletic Club's show booed the fighters as they disappeared from the ring.

The first round was slow and uninteresting, unless you consider persistent clinching interesting. The honors, what there were of them, were about even.

Dundee copped the second round with a couple of stiff lefts and rights and Pink came back and got the third after he had slammed Joe half way through the ropes.

Round four was awarded to Dundee because he hit oftener than Pinky. But none of his blows did any damage.

Pinky got the fifth round, although he did much clinching. The crowd clamored louder than ever for action. Clinching might be all right for one round, but five rounds of it gets tiresome.

In the sixth, Dundee rushed and Pinky clinched. Joe had a hard time breaking loose. Dundee rushed again and they clinched again while the crowd booed.

Then it was that the referee took things into his own hands and the fight was officially declared off.

No championship was at stake because Mitchell weighed 150 lbs., five pounds over the welter limit. Dundee weighed 144 pounds.

BILL MALONEY TRYS HAND ON DIAMOND AGAIN

After a long retirement, dating back to 1918, Bill Maloney has come out of obscurity as manager and coach of a baseball club signing players from 14 to 16 years of age. The club is named after his own popular cigar and candy store, "The Zanetta Cigar Stores."

Manager of some of Richmond's greatest ball clubs in the past, Bill is an old time baseball player who knows his stuff. He will be assisted on the lines by Shanrock, another old timer who was "first aid" in days gone by.

The Zanetta Cigars play their first game Sunday at the First street ball park at 10:30 a.m., against McGowan's All Stars, a bunch of old time Richmond baseball players.

In the Zanetta Cigars' lineup are: Sam Miguel, Taylor, Vianco, L. Martinez, Fraser, Johnson, Mather, Willie Chambers, Moitoza, Prolo, Potts, Sindich and Phelps.

The McGowans will muster: McGowan, J. Martinez, Tiger Finnigan, Fredericks, Don Smith, Florio, Hoagland, Brockway, Banducci, Moitoza, Cardoza, Bates, and Bowditch.

$40,000 IS PAID FOR STRIP ON MACDONALD

One of the most important realty transactions recently consummated on Macdonald avenue occurred yesterday in the sale of fifty feet of property on the south side of the avenue between Seventh and Eighth streets.

At a consideration of $40,000 Dr. Fred La Belle, of Oakland, sold the strip of land now occupied by frame buildings, to Max Chinitz, Richmond capitalist. The deal was handled by A. L. Paulsen and L. T. Holt, of the Paulsen Realty service.

Chinitz plans to raze the present structures which now house a barber shop, cigar store, restaurant and shoe shop and to erect a modern building in their place. No definite plans have as yet been announced.

In the deal Chinitz disposed of three lots on the southeast corner of Eighth street and Nevin avenue to Dr. LaBelle, who is also the owner of a building on the southwest corner of Seventh street and Macdonald avenue. Chinitz is the owner of the southeast corner of Eighth street and Macdonald avenue, occupied by the Woolworth store.

A number of inquiries have been received by the Paulsen Realty service lately for locations on Macdonald avenue. Many out of town business men, including merchants, barbers, etc., have signified their intention of locating here. The demand is expected to give impetus to building operations in Richmond.

WATSON FREED ON $3000 BAIL

Major C. P. Watson, prominent Owens river valley rancher, and A. J. Becker, his companion on the dynamite-carrying trip from Hercules to Bakersfield last May, as result of which Watson is now awaiting trial in the local courts next month for illegal possession of high explosives, were arraigned in Police Judge Howard Bacon's court in Oakland yesterday morning on a charge of illegal transportation of dynamite. Both entered pleas of not guilty and hearing was set for September 1.

Folks who have seen Clearlake Oaks are generous in their praise of this natural wonderland, situated about 50 miles inland and at an elevation of 1325 feet above sea level. You can bathe, swim, fish, surf-ride or go boating on the fine, clean lake, which is over 25 miles long itself; and there are lovely coves and sheltered inlets where the little ones can play safely to their heart's content. And Clearlake Oaks is one of those places which, while offering all the delights of the open, is not removed from the conveniences and comforts of life, for right on the spot there is an hotel, grocery and drug store, pool hall, dancing pavilion, restaurants, and a good lumber company supplying building material for those who want to build at once.

The roads to Clearlake Oaks are in excellent condition, being under State supervision; and fresh spring water is piped to every lot. And there's electricity, too. Great, shady oaks, manzanitas and pines all over the property; cool breezes all Summer, with no fog. Gloria Swanson To Divorce Marquis? Well She Doesn't Happen To Think So Yet!

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—Gloria Swanson denied vehemently, emphatically, and every other way a lady can deny a story and still be a lady that she has ever had any intention of suing the Marquis De La Palaise for a divorce. "Why can't they leave us alone?" she asked, when a printed story headlining the rumor that she and Henri would seek their marital freedom as soon as he returned to his native France.

"I hadn't been married six weeks," said Gloria, "before they were busy trying to separate us. I have no objection to divorce," she said. "But at this time I do not happen to want to divorce him. When I do I will tell you—and you can print the story."

That was a month ago.

Last Tuesday Gloria and the Marquis De La Palaise were lunching at the Montmartre—at different tables. The gossip had been renewed that Gloria would not urge the Marquis to return to Hollywood when he sails for France.

"I suppose I shouldn't have let Henri lunch with business associates while I am lunching with my friends," she said, "because there is sure to be more talk of our separation."

Gloria proved a modern cassandra. Her prophetic remarks came home sooner than she or anyone else expected. Less than a week later a story appeared in a New York paper that she would sue him for divorce.

SPANIARD HIT AT WILL: FOUL BLOWS CLAIMED

Basque swung three more lefts in and the referee chased him to his corner, awarding the battle to Delaney on a foul after one minute and 57 seconds of fighting in the round.

PRELIMINARIES

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Aug. 11.—Dick Fullum, Yankee middleweight and Felix Sportello, rugged importation from Italy, fought four fierce rounds to a draw in the opening preliminary of the Delaney-Uzudun fight tonight. Both scored knockdowns. Fullum weighed 159½, Sportello 160.

Hilario Martinez, colorful junior lightweight from Spain, whipped Sammy Vogel, clever New Yorker, in a 10-round preliminary. Martinez gained the verdict through his stiff body punching that had Vogel wobble in the final session. Vogel weighed 141, Martinez 140.

Dave Shade, veteran California middleweight, outslugged Joe Anderson of Kentucky in a slambang 10-round semi-final. Dave was altogether too fast for the southerner, making him miss frequently and leave wide openings for clean wallops to the head and ribs, but both mixed at a lively pace.

THREE BIRTHS REPORTED

Richmond Maternity hospital reports the birth of three babies yesterday. A boy arrived to Mr. and Mrs. Harrison White of 610 Ninth street, and two girls arrived, the parents being Mr. and Mrs. Henry Winkler of 453 Fifth street and Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Faulk of Pinole.

VANZETTI AND SACCO SEE NEW HOPE FOR LIFE

(By Universal Service)

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 11.—Sacco and Vanzetti have a chance to live indefinitely.

Their appeal to full bench of the Supreme Court of Massachusetts was allowed today by Judge George Sanderson.

The case will come up next Tuesday.

Although the two men and Celso Medeiros, who has so oddly "horned in" in their luck, were last night granted a reprieve until a night of August 22, it is possible there will be further tags of execution once the case is again launched in the courts.

Poor Sacco was in a daze today. He had fully expected to be dead and so gave the appearance of a man who didn't know what it was all about.

Vanzetti, the more alert of the two was keenly aware of all that was going on. He broke his hunger strike this morning. He is optimistic of the future.

But Sacco would not eat. He believed that "the government has it in for him."

The only advantage he sees in the reprieve is a chance to starve himself to death before August 22, and so beat the chair.

Medeiros has never been on a hunger strike and has no intention of doing so. After all, a little food or less is all his few remaining days held for him.

The three men were removed from their death cells today at noon, while other occupants of the state prison were at lunch, and taken back to their former cells in the Cherry Hill section.

Sacco was the weakest of the three, but he managed to walk without aid across the prison yard and up the stairs to his new abode. If he continues his strike he may be forcibly fed later on. It was intimated today by the prison physician.

Today was filled with legal complexities.

Judge George Sanderson of the Supreme Court, held that it was his "power and duty" to send to the full bench the exceptions taken to his decision of two or three days ago when he refused a writ of error based on the alleged prejudice of Judge Webster Thayer, who tried and sentenced the men.

After that, the defense attorneys filed in the Norfolk county Superior court their exceptions to the rulings of Judge Thayer who denied a new trial and refused to revoke the sentence.

At the same time an application for a writ of habeas corpus was filed in the district Federal Court as a matter of record although Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the U. S. Supreme Court, and Judge Anderson of the U. S. Circuit Court late yesterday held that the case was one for the state courts only to dispose of.
